

GOLCONDA
MUSÉE
DES ARTS ET ANCIENS
L'ANDES CIVILISATIONS

ING AND MORSEL
(1368 - 1640)
New York

DESCRIPTION: large terracotta figure of a woman wearing a long aristocratic gown. The figure is in green, yellow and ivory sancai glaze. The figure is in ORIGIN: the word sancai, meaning "three colors", refers to the oxides mixed with yellow, green and brown, baked at green or sometimes-dark brown, and color for color dates back to the Han period. More precious because their cost of production is high. No visible restorations, original cracks.

DIMENSIONS: Height: 60.3 cm (23.7 inches)

THERMOLUMINESCENCE TEST: laboratory test

PROVENANCE: Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York. Acquired in 1915 by the legacy of John D. Rockefeller, the second largest locomotive manufacturer in the world at his death, although he was known for his philanthropy. He bequeathed much of his fortune to the philanthropists of all time. He donated the

with
and

ent
ves
rch
ned

ED

ing
her
his
he
test s to the

MET cannot use this money, but only the income it generates. Many masterpieces were purchased thanks to this story.

Police book registration N°: 1867