

LCONDA

GALE
ET ANCIEN
DES CIVILISATIONS

DES ASIA (RIN) PIN OF GUAN CASTLE (5

DATE: important talisma ed beak is presented on neaddress depicts a seated figure, dressed in shoulders. In Mesoamerica, the custom head of his defeated enemy on his Jadeite green, veined with cloudy Columbian jade, which is much harder than An exceptional state of preservation.

ORIGIN: Costa Rica was once one of Columbian America. It is believed that of the so-called Jade, which was more valued aristocracy, who wore it during their lives wore jade in more rustic pebble forms more in the South than in the North "flourishing" period, some individuals due to the scarcity of its deposits. The Motagua River. The firing pin was used of the Caribbean and was fashioned in a form was taught to the inhabitants of Co ig

ie
ts
ie
eely
st
so
:d ie
so ie
lf
ar

PROVENANCE: ancient collection of Thierry Huet

BIBLIOGRAPHY: similar examples are published in the book "Jade from Ancient Costa Rica", edited by Julie Jones, The Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York.

Police book registration N°: 1848